Carnival magic

The night sky on Wednesday was ablaze with the colours of the Haliburton Rotary Carnival. Games of chance, the midway, the parade... Haliburton had it all. For more photos see pages 3, 8 and 9.

Move over Kash Crocodile, Sowerbuyi is the new guy on the lake

SHERYL LOUCKS

Staff Reporter

Despite the popularity of the "Kash Croc Hunter" theme at last week's Rotary parade, there has been no hard evidence of a crocodile or cayman in Lake Kashagawigamog, but there is evidence of a rare species in the lake.

Found in only 30 to 40 waterways in Canada, these little strange creatures were spotted in Kashagawigamog by a visiting family.

"They sure look like jellyfish to me. But I thought jellyfish were only found in salt water," mused Michael Soegtrop.

He and his two sons were snorkelling last Tuesday when they came upon a whole patch of jellyfish near the cottage where they were staying on the south shore. The jellyfish ranged in size from a dime to a quarter.

His children, 10-year-old Robbie and seven-year-old Matthew Soegtrop, have been snorkelling elsewhere and have seen stingrays and large jellyfish. They dubbed their find as "weird."

This rare fresh water jellyfish is also found on Minniecock Lake.

Soegtrop says he has been diving and snorkelling for 30 years and had never seen anything like them before. The family is from the Toronto area and frequently rents cottages in the Haliburton area.

The mystery progressed through the week. Lake Kashagawigamog's former lake steward, Trevor Babbs, said he had never heard of such a thing and neither had current steward, John Lindsay.

"I've never seen anything like

A 20-year-old counsellor from Camp White Pine was killed in a horrific and mysterious crash west of Carnarvon Monday morning.

OPP investigating officers aren't sure what caused the single car crash that happened on Highway 118 in the general vicinity of Anson Creek bridge at approximately 7:30 a.m.

"There were no witnesses," said Staff Sgt. Bob Walli of the Haliburton Highlands Detachment of the OPP.

"We've pretty well ruled out animals and there were no other vehicles involved. It was a straight stretch of highway, it was a clear, sunny morning - a little misty, but not a lot - and the roads were dry."

No one saw what happened but another driver came along shortly after the Chevy Lumina carrying three people smashed into a rock cut. It was a terrible scene. Firefighters who have experience working in the city of Toronto, where fatal accidents are common, said it one of the most horrible accident scenes they had ever witnessed.

Walli said the car was headed eastbound on 118 when the accident happened. Behind the

Haliburton Parade stops traffic

The Haliburton Rotary Summer Carnival Parade marched through the village streets of Haliburton, ending at Head Lake Park. Hundreds of people lined the streets cheering on floats from Extencicare (at left), the Kawartha Cavaliers, above, and this safe boating entry. (The two guys are doing everything they shouldn't, hence the beer cans.)

that here. I wonder if they sting or leave a rash. I seem to remember that once, during the CNE Lake Swim (Lake Ontario); there was a problem of swimmers encountering jellyfish but I'm not certain," said Lindsay.

Soegtrop took his bucketful of mystery jellyfish minis to the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Minden and there the mystery was solved.

These new residents of Kashagawigamog are from the Craspedacusta clan and are known as Sowerbuyi, according to Gerry Moraal, MNR biologist.

He says he has never seen or heard of these jellyfish either but he did some research and discovered they are a rare fresh water breed. Despite being rare, Haliburton also can brag of having Sowerbuyi in Minnicock Lake.

Moraal explained that, like their larger cousins, these jellyfish do use stinging cells to paralyze their prey but the information he found says there is no hard evidence of little Sowerbuyi ever penetrating human skin.

Kashagawigamog seems to be attracting all sorts of strange critters lately. Another species that has been discovered in the lake this year, that Soegtrop also commented on seeing, is a Bryzoa.

Honestly, this is not a Steve Galea column. These things really exist. The Bryzoa is even more bizarre-looking than the mini-jellyfish. This fella is a big ball of jelly filled with eggs.

"It looks like brains," according to Robbie Soegtrop.

Bryzoa was just a bit too bizarre for the Soegtrops so they left him alone while they were scooping up a collection of Sowerbuyi.

Moraal says Bryzoa are not unusual in this area and not dangerous.

Robbie and Matthew Soegtrop were caught by surprise when they discovered these jellyfish while snorkeling in Lake Kashagawigamog last week.

Doing the Heimlich:

Mingles waitress rushes to save choking patron

SHERYL LOUCKS

Staff Reporter

Amanda Slingerland was clearing tables at Mingles Restaurant when she heard someone call out "Is there a doctor here?"

Slingerland says she remembers telling her manager to call 911 out of habit. (She is a cottager from Midland.) Then, not waiting for anyone, she went back to the men's washroom and found Richard Reid, a local resident, choking.

"People tend to get embarrassed and hide. So I just went right back. I stayed calm. I asked if they needed help and then just jumped right in," says Slingerland.

A lifeguard for three years, Slingerland says she is not only trained in CPR and first aid but has been teaching kids the skills for the last few years as part of her work as a swimming instructor.

"It just came so automatically to me. I didn't really have to even think about it," she says.

Reid says he knew even as he swallowed his food he should not have but had been distracted by conversation.

"I know to chew my food - I'm 68 years old," Reid commented. "The food was really lodged in there. I nearly blacked out. I couldn't breathe."

Slingerland says she has never practised the Heimlich manoeuvre before on a real choking victim and did not expect it to be so "excruciating."

"I'd been tubing the day before but the adrenalin was flowing and I actually had him off the floor a couple of times trying to get it to dislodge. I didn't really feel it then but wow, were my arms ever sore the next day," says Slingerland.

Another man stepped in and asked if she wanted him to take over. Slingerland stepped aside and the stranger managed to free the obstruction from Reid's throat. In the midst of the confusion the stranger left without anyone getting his name.

Although only 19, Slingerland says she has acted in emergencies before. She applied first aid for things like

"It just came so automatically to me," says Amanda Slingerland, who developed an interest in life-saving techniques when she was 10 years old and saved her sister from drowning. "I didn't really have to think about it." The man she helped to save after he choked on some food, Richard Reid of Haliburton, says all restaurants should think about having staff trained in the Heimlich manoeuvre.

bee stings to people allergic to them and has saved two drowning individuals as a life guard.

It was at an even younger age, though, when the importance of first aid knowledge was borne upon her.

Slingerland says that when she was about 10 years old, her younger sister was drowning in a pool when Slingerland "fished her out."

"I guess I've been interested in life guarding ever since," she says.

Reid says the incident has taught him how important it is to learn the Heimlich and first aid. He is now researching when and where to get the training and is considering driving to Peterborough to get the course.

"It's one of those things that always gets put off. Then you read stories like the one about the baby choking (reported in The Echo's Harcourt News column last week) and think 'What if that happened in my family?' I wouldn't know what to do - it's really scary," says Reid.

Slingerland says that even though she has the training, she never expected to use it at the restaurant but feels good knowing she helped provide assistance to Reid. It was not until the day after the incident that she almost lost her cool.

"When he came in the next day to thank me, I almost cried. He's such a cute old man, he sent me flowers and gave me a hand-made card," says Slingerland.

Reid says he is not one to have his name in the paper but wanted to stress how important it was for the restaurant to have staff trained in emergency response and the importance for individuals to get trained.

Summer tragedy

JUST AS WE WERE STARTING TO THINK we had got through the rest of summer relatively unscathed by bad news, a young Camp White Pine counsellor was killed in an early morning accident on Monday. News of such a tragedy cast a chill over the hot day. One thinks of the teen's parents and family, his friends at home and at camp, the other people in the car. It's such a horrible catastrophe in so many people's lives.

There's something about summer, and its shortness, that makes Canadians almost frenetic about trying to fit too many things into our days in the sun. As a result, summer, which is supposed to be a time of carefree fun and relaxation, often turns into a time of sadness and tragedy, especially on our roads. We drive too fast because we're always late, and we're always late because we try to do too much.

— martha perkins

All of us probably have an incident from the past few months which makes us question our priorities and driving habits. For this driver, it was a friend who swerved to avoid a deer, lost control of her car, hit a rock cut and ended up upside down in her car in the middle of the road. It's a blessing she's alive. And the accident is a reminder that that deer could have jumped out in front of any one of us. How would we have reacted? (The police say to hit the deer. If you only have collision insurance, it's also better for you financially if you hit the deer, too. No impact with a deer, no insurance money to pay for a new car.)

Basically, too many of us drive beyond our ability to safely brake in case of an emergency. We drive faster than our ability to figure out our options when the deer jumps out of the bush in front of us or an oncoming driver makes a foolish attempt to pass, coming straight for us in our lane.

Many people as they get older automatically slow down — and then wonder why everyone else is driving so recklessly fast. As we get older, our physical abilities begin to wane, but so does our confidence. We become warier, more cautious. Fear of accidents slows us down. Of course, older people tend not to have jobs or kids at home or hectic schedules to follow, so that helps.

But accidents like Monday's, which might not have had anything to do with speed, are a reminder to us all. Slow down, take your time, treat driving as a huge responsibility instead of an automatic right.

Why ATVs have a bad name

This is a special note to the parents of two young men who were driving a yellow four-wheeler at 5:30 p.m. Friday. There were two boys (the one sitting on the back was wearing a black t-shirt and a brown knapsack) on the ATV, which is only designed to hold one person. We thought you should know they came hurtling out of the bush and up onto the roadway of County Road 121, just west of Kashaga Drive, forcing an oncoming motorist to slam on the brakes and swerve around them.

Even worse, they picked up speed until they were right on that car's bumper, then swerved and actually passed the car on the right. The car was going the speed limit. Then they got back on the highway and raced up the hill before turning off at the Hilltop Market. As the motorist passed them, they looked and laughed. Pretty funny stuff.

Parents: either you teach your kids about safety or you take away their ATV or you start planning their funerals.

Who needs words, anyway?

FYI, THE FOLLOWING PROGNOSIS could save wus taxpayers oodles of money and our kids a lot of effort. Using words to convey meaning may just be passé. Think of the reduction in education costs if our mother tongue no longer had to form the centrepiece of the school curricula and learning other languages became totally unnecessary. We would all learn to speak in capital letters. Definitely save time

Sometimes I think that that future is not far off, just when we, Canadians, were truly becoming convinced that speaking more than one language is of definite value. We also are beginning to acknowledge that for most children learning a second language is easy.

I first was introduced to this reality when we were living in the Netherlands years ago. A 12-year-old girl came to visit her grandmother, our neighbour. This child had one parent who was Dutch, one who was German, went with them when very young to live in a Spanish-speaking country, and then at age eight had been sent to a bilingual Canadian school. Five languages she had been immersed in, five languages she spoke easily.

Two things were amazing. First, she replied automatically in the language spoken by the person addressing her, so much so that one began to realize that she was not even consciously aware of the switches. Second, she was not particularly clever, only average, according to her parents. They were surprised that I would even consider that to be a sign of exceptional intelligence. In their world of several languages, children just absorbed them.

We, in this bilingual country of ours, have finally come to realize that learning to speak at least a second language can be an employment enhancement. Politicians and bureaucrats are finding advancement limited if bilingual fluency is missing. Even the Ontario Police Academy requires basic fluency in French for applicants. Some day we might actually be truly bilingual as is South Africa, at least according to my observations watching T.V. 10 years ago when working there. Two official languages, Afrikaans and English. Group discussions were, to me, astonishing. Each spoke in their language of choice. No voice-over translation; so obviously participants as well as viewers understood both languages.

Could it be that, at a time when we are on the brink of becoming a truly bilingual country, words may be losing their stature as our primary means of communication?

This would not be a top down evolution like the proposal, during the last century, to have only one universal, artificial language called Esperanto. That was promoted by mathematicians and scientists who figured that such would be much more practical. After all, with our world wide babel of more than 7,000 languages, communication would be greatly eased if we would all just learn this new, technically created language. No, this latest trend is a bottom up one. Everybody seems to be into this single-letter-conveying-meaning phenomenon. It is so much faster, and life to-day depends upon us all compressing everything so that we can supposedly accomplish so much more.

In fact, if only I was "with it" enough to have absorbed all these terms I could convey my ideas in this column in a few lines. Wow! That would save newspaper space, save time for those who wish to peruse it, save my fingers from so much wear and tear typing — in other words, could be a win win situation but I am definitely not conversant in this code. Ah well! PS Thx HL.

Some baby talk

ANY PARENT CAN ATTEST, the mere act of living with a two-year-old will expand your vocabulary and life experiences. Not only will these little people make you say words that you never knew existed, but they'll make you repeat them in sentences that have never, in all humanity's history, been uttered. In fact, many times as you are conversing with your toddler, people smart enough not to have one will merely think you are a foreigner speaking a distant and exotic dialect. Believe me, this is good.

For instance, before we had our little bundle of joy, Carmen, I can't recall ever using the phrase, "Sweetheart, I told you the dog doesn't want to try out daddy's new binoculars to look at the silly cows."

Furthermore, even though it is now a common sentence used in my every day parlance, I'm reasonably certain that I was the one to coin the phrase. And, sad as it might seem, I have a hard time imagining that it will ever be used again outside of a psychiatric ward.

Yet sentences like these are commonplace when communicating with your little offspring. That's because, at this tender age, the mind is a blank canvas

just waiting to be filled with wonderful ideas. Which is just what your two-year-old is willing to do for you.

There is absolutely nothing that a toddler does not see differently. Theirs is an egocentric world of immature wants and desires that supercedes your own egocentric world of immature wants and desires. It's not a place for the faint of heart or the weak of stomach

I'm in the process of surviving my third toddler and I believe I can see the light at the end of the tunnel. The good news is the fact that Carmen has finally potty-trained herself. The bad news is that she's also trying to pass along this newfound knowledge to me. Not that I need it; I've been doing just fine for years now.

Despite these assurances, Carmen insists that she might be able to help me fine-tune my technique so that one day I might be just as good at it as her.

The other day, I had retired into the "reading room" where I hoped beyond all hope that I'd be able to have a little sit-down in peace. Suddenly, a horrible thought occurred to me. I forgot to lock myself in. Even as I stretched my arms out across the room to turn the lock, Carmen burst through the door like a SWAT team executing a high-risk takedown, which in hindsight I guess it was. I felt vulnerable to say the least, especially since I was suitably dressed for a body cavity search.

"Oh, Daddy! You using the potty. I'm so proud," she cooed. "You're a good boy, daddy!" Just then she kissed me on the cheek, another first while sitting in this room.

Her selective hearing — a feature that you don't pay extra for with toddlers and teenagers — tuned out my loud demands for privacy or at least a good lawyer. Instead, she took it upon herself to be my potty coach, all the while uttering kind words of encouragement, patting me on the back and handing me a roll of toilet paper and explaining what to do with it.

I was rescued by her mother, but not before Carmen had gone through a detailed account of the mechanics of flushing and the kind of scrunched up faces that help make the whole miracle of pooh-pooh happen. This is the kind of real life stuff you never see in a diaper commercial and I believe such a video might promote zero population growth. Yes, it was not pretty.

I only relay this sordid story as a public service to those young couples who might even now be in the act of creating a little person. Yes, they are beautiful and great. Yes, they can and do light up your life with tenderness and unconditional love.

But it's not all peaches and cream and you need to be aware of that too before you make an informed decision. Children will gray the hair that they have not driven off of your head. They'll tax your patience and often turn you into a babbling idiot. And then there's the bad side.

As you can guess, the minute you hold your first child you are holding a lot of responsibility. And, as my story suggests, there are times when this can scare the crap right out of you.

pic of the past

Today you find Curry Motors at the corner of 121 and 118 in downtown Haliburton, but back in 1946, the gas pumps and garage could be found farther west down the main street. In the bottom photo, the building to the right was the pool hall owned by Berkley Feir and his son Creighton. When they bought the Minden Echo in 1951 and moved the newspaper to Haliburton, the pool hall became the paper's printing office. Today it's the location of the Old Country House. Our thanks to Jack Brohm for sharing this week's Pic of the Past with us.

letters to the editor

Keep campus's shoreline public

The following letter was first sent to the councillors of the Municipality of Dysart et al.

I would like to congratulate Councillor Jerry Walker for raising the issue of ownership of the 66-foot-wide shoreline road allowance which the municipality owns in Glebe Park and for being concerned for the future control of this land and access by the public. As demonstrated this past winter when the dog sled races were held in Haliburton and the lake could not be used, the use of the railway line and the football field at the high school made it a successful event which benefited the participants and the community. However the school board was most upset that school property was used and would probably not have granted permission for its use if organizers had had time to make proper application — this although we, the taxpayers, fund the school board.

We taxpayers also fund Sir Sandford Fleming College. In fact the taxpayers of our municipality have not only donated extremely valuable parkland on which the new campus is being built, we are also paying for 1.4 kms of road through Glebe Park which is almost complete and will cost on completion close to half a million dollars. Then our municipality will build the sewer line to the college at an estimated cost of a quarter of a million dollars. This is quite an investment for a municipality with a permanent population of approximately 5,000 and for a campus which will accommodate fewer than 200 students.

For comparison, the population of the high school, senior elementary school and elementary school in Haliburton is around 1,500 students and properly some of these facilities are used for the School of the Arts — run by Sir Sandford Fleming College. There is no doubt that the new campus will be an asset to the municipality and that the taxpayers are generous in helping it to be constructed.

But enough is enough.

There has been no demonstrated need for Sir Sandford Fleming College to control 800 of the 1,000 feet of shoreline road allowance but there definitely is need for the public to, and in perpetuity, have access and ownership. Parkland is scarce and precious land and a park on a lake is irreplaceable. The only way for the public to be sure of access is for the municipality to retain ownership of the land.

Rotary canoe challenge

Kandalore paddles its way to top place

There was plenty of splashing, laughing and cheering going on – not to mention a whole lot of paddling – during this year's annual Rotary Club's Camp Canoe Races held Wednesday afternoon at Head Lake Park. Here are some results.

The top three teams in the Junior Girls event were: 1st Jill Saevitzon and Julia Fishlock from Camp Kandalore with a time of 6:14; 2nd Vanessa Dibranonon and Kristina Rapljenovic from Camp Wenonah, 6:13; 3rd Jannette Donnie and Hilary McGuire from Wenonah, 6:17.

The top three finishers in the Junior Boys event were: 1st Graham Courtright and Luke Hartshorn from Kandalore, 4:55; 2nd Chris Williamson and Daniel Malcomson from Wenonah, 5:30; 3rd Steve Lemesunier and Sam Perlmutter from Wenonah, 5:31.

The top three teams in the Senior Girls event were: Murielle Cayoutte and Sam Armstrong from Kandalore, 8:41; 2nd Katie Fisher and Nathalie Oulds from Camp Wanakita, 8:54; 3rd Katie James and Laura Alonzo from Kandalore, 8:56.

The top three finishers in the Senior Boys event were: Derek Brady and J.P. Sado of Camp Kilcoo, 7:30; 2nd Ted Currie and Matt McKay of Kilcoo, 7:45; 3rd Owen Williams and John Holty of Wanakita, 7:49.

The top three teams in the Open Women event were: 1st Isabelle St. Pierre and A.J. Sainsbury, Kandalore, 9:50; 2nd Amy Jacobs and Sue Chrysler, Wanakita, 10:33; 3rd Hilary Kilgour and Liz Gillin, Kandalore, 10:44.

The top three finishers in the Open Men event were: 1st Jamie Pope and Will Fyfe of Kandalore, 8:40; 2nd Allean Bean and Mark Meldrum of Kilcoo, 8:30; 3rd George Wright and Michael Lewis, Kilcoo, 9:06.

The overall girls' totals are in order from first to last: Kandalore, Wenonah, Wanakita, Northland and Kilcoo. The overall boys' totals are: Kilcoo, Wenonah, Kandalore, Wanakita and Northland.

Paddling a canoe may be a silent sport, but cheering on your favourite team of paddlers certainly isn't. Head Lake Park was a cacophony of sights and sounds in the early hours of the Haliburton Rotary Carnival, when the Rotary Club sponsored its annual camp canoe challenge. Campers from across the county came out in droves – or whatever else you call a gaggle of canoes – to compete for the coveted trophies.

Renee Kaylor clocked the fastest time for women, 6:08, in Wednesday's Rotary Mile. Minden teenager Sean Kenney, far right, raced in the open men's race and came in fourth with an impressive 4:53.

Kennisis Laker wins Rotary Mile

The weather couldn't have been any better for the runners taking part in this year's Rotary Mile last Wednesday.

Cool, gentle breezes embraced the runners as they set up at the starting line on Haliburton's main street at 6:30 p.m., raring to take on what has become the fastest route through the village, year after year. There's an open run for adults and a youth run for the kids. And every year, for some reason, there are people who do the run in costume - this year one fellow wore a mask and another donned a Santa Claus outfit.

The winner of this year's Open Race was Andrew Alley, a university student and cottager at Kennisis Lake. His time was 4:28. He was eligible to win the $200 grand prize but he couldn't accept it because of his scholarship program.

The same applied to university student Mike Logue who was in first place at the race's half-way point and wound up finishing second. His final time was just behind Alley's, at 4:34.

Third place went to Bernie Hogan of Bancroft. His time was 4:49.

The fourth place finisher was teenager Sean Keaney of Minden, an up-and-coming runner who has been giving the older guys something to worry about. His time was 4:53, just a breath or two behind Hogan.

The fastest woman in the Open event was also a student, Renee Kaylor. Her time was 6:08. Minden resident Brenda Wilcox was the second fastest woman with 6:25. Debbie Whalen of Peterborough clocked in at 6:32.

In the Youth Race, local runner Ryan Bottum won first place with a time of 5:46. Tom Weiss, a cottager from Minnick Lake, was a hair behind Ryan with a time of 5:47. That was a great race for spectators. Third place was Peter Irwin of Campbellford with 6:17.

The top three girls in the Youth Race were Jessica Gray of Courtice with a time of 6:27; Heather Irwin of Campbellford with 6:56; and Andrea Salvatori of Haliburton with 7:23.

There was no word on how Santa Claus placed but he didn't come last. The person who did clocked in with 9:15.

OFAH tells kids to Get Outdoors

KENNETH JACKSON

Staff Reporter

With the world full of electronic gadgets and skateparks, most of today's youth don't get to experience the joy and thrill of the great outdoors, but one organization is doing its best to change that right in our backyard.

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters has been organizing summer camps and clubs that emphasize the use of the outdoors.

The reason is simple: too many children are locked in front of some sort of electronic system.

"I was looking at a survey the other day and it says today's youths watch an average of 24 hours of television a week. That's not good," said Robert Pye, the program co-ordinator for the OFAH Get Outdoors Summer Leadership Camp. "Young people need to get outdoors more."

Pye says OFAH chose Haliburton Forest Wildlife Reserve for their Get Outdoors camp because it is ideal.

"We needed a place that wouldn't be too out of the way for anyone. Plus, Haliburton Forest is very rustic and very authentic," said Pye. "It gives the campers the true meaning of the outdoors."

They will be doing activities, such as a live-release fishing tournament, a Haliburton mountain biking tour, archery, target shooting, orienteering, a trip to the Wolf Education Centre and leadership games.

Pye says by participating in these activities the youths will get a background they might not usually get at home.

However, Pye does say the theme of the camps is to not only take from the forest, but to learn how to give back.

"If we are going to use the outdoors;

KENNETH JACKSON/Echo

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Anglers wants to get kids away from their computer games and into the outdoors. Its camp at Haliburton Forest, attended by these young people last week, is the perfect opportunity to do just that.

we need to know how to conserve it also."

The campers are aged eight to 18 and come from as far east as Brockville to as far west as Woodstock, says Pye.

The two leadership camps were geared specifically to youths who wanted to prepare for leadership roles within their clubs and their communities.

One young camper from Bowmanville says he just wanted to get away from the traffic lights and smelly air.

"I enjoy the outdoors and fishing. This was just something I was interested in," says Jonathon Cunningham, 10.

His father, who is also named Jonathon, said it is critical for his son to experience the outdoors.

"He doesn't get to see this in the city and it's very important for him to see what we've got up here," says the older

Jonathon.

After the initial sign-up and barbecue at the Boiler Room of Haliburton Forest, Jonathon and the other young campers ventured on to the Wolf Centre.

The next couple of days took them to the Stocking Lake moose hunting camp where they would learn about a life that doesn't involve a keyboard or mouse — well maybe the ones that eat your crackers.

Walter meets his match

Walter has been caught! The big lake trout which has alluded countless anglers was caught on Drag Lake in Haliburton on Friday, August 9 by Christopher David Farrell with help from his 20-year fishing partner Paul Keffer. The lake trout weighed in at approximately 19.5 pounds and was 36" long.

More swimmers than ever compete in Ced Hurd race

"Fun in the Sun" activities entertained Drag Lake Property Owners Association members over the August holiday weekend.

The 'Bug Splash', as water day is called, kicked off Saturday morning with the annual Ced Hurd Memorial Mile Swim.

Thirty-five entries, the largest ever, set the stage for the 8 to 60+ year-olds under brilliant sunshine and calm waters. Everyone completed the mile course including eight-year-old Brittany Fink. The best handicap time was turned in by Geoff Guimond at 25.37 minutes, a 13-year-old. The winner and best absolute time was recorded by 22-year-old Sarah Young at 26.36 minutes.

The afternoon featured swim and novelty races at the association's beach. Co-ordinators Jim and Pat Fink along with Donald Jean Young estimated attendance at more than 200 for the splash event.

Sunday was 'fun Day' at the Gonnson's Play Field (ex. Drag Lake Lodge/Camp Scugog property). Under warm yet somewhat overcast skies cottagers and friends pulled, threw, ran, swung and hammered their way through a series of events aimed to please all ages.

Also, for the first time, the association introduced a 50/50 charity draw. Co-ordinator Judy Neimann was thrilled at the outcome when told that $300 had been raised. The association executives will direct $150 to a local group at their September meeting. This will be in addition to the Association's annual community dona-

Co-presidents Dave LaFerle and Diana Ferguson praised the many volunteers who made this year's weekend so successful as they do every year. Also, local retailers were acknowledged for their prize donations and annual support including The Echo for its coverage of the many area associations' activities throughout the year.

CIBC one day closure due to bat extermination

It was not burglars but bats that inadvertently caused the closure of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce last Tuesday.

When CIBC branch manager Barbara Black arrived in the morning, she says she could smell something in the air and knew something was wrong so the bank staff was cleared out until the Haliburton branch could be inspected.

Michael Critchley, CIBC media relations officer, says there had been a long-term problem with bats living on the roof of the building and getting into the ventilation system through the vents on the roof.

An extermination company was called in to get rid of the bats and clean up the problems.

He says the branch was cleared out while the fumes from the extermination effort were cleared from the building.

He says the bank management had not expected the extermination work to cause the problem and so customers were not given any warning about this unexpected closure.

The streets were lined with people last Tuesday in Haliburton with an influx of cottagers who chose to come into town on a chilly day. Black says it was a good thing the bank had automated teller services to assist their customers.

The CIBC was re-opened the next day without any further incident.

OPP busy on holiday weekend

The Haliburton Highlands Detachment of the O.P.P. reported a busy civic holiday weekend.

Officers responded to 87 calls for service including 14 noise complaints, 10 traffic complaints, 14 motor vehicle accidents and one impaired driver arrested.

Members were also active in participating in the Central Region O.P.P. "Cottage Patrol" traffic initiative, which was targeting aggressive drivers in the Haliburton County.

The O.P.P. Marine Unit was active on Gull, Benoit, Grace, Esson, Dark, Fletcher, Livingston, Davis, Hawk and Kashagawigamog Lakes over the long weekend.

EMS paramedics answer more calls compared to other years

This past civic holiday weekend was much busier for local paramedics than the previous two this season.

From 6 p.m. Friday evening until 8 a.m. Tuesday morning, Haliburton County EMS responded to 55 calls of which 24 were emergency responses.

Of the 24 emergencies, eight involved motor vehicle accidents and one watercraft mishap. Air Ambulance services were also utilized three times in the county during the busy weekend.

Camp to get help from accident support team wheel was 20-year-old Yale Pilz, a resident of Thornhill and a counsellor at White Pine, a large, popular camp that attracts campers from all over the world. Famous for being the location for the shooting of the movie Meatballs, White Pine is located on Highway 118 between Haliburton Village and West Guilford.

It was a day off for Pilz, Walli said, and for his passengers John Corbin of Toronto and Page Magen of Thornhill, both young men in their early 20s. Corbin and Magen were taken by ambulance first to Minden Hospital and then later to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. Walli said they were treated for non-life threatening injuries.

Their friend wasn't so lucky. Pilz was pronounced dead at Minden Hospital.

At Camp White Pine, the news hit hard. Walli said, "They're doing OK. It's a large camp but the kids and the counsellors all know each other. They're going through the grieving process now."

Staff, he said, were notified and he was sure that, by the end of the day, most campers knew as well. As far as Walli knew, the camp did not close but a team from Victims Crisis and Referral Service was brought in to help everyone cope.

Firefighters from both Minden Hills and Algonquin Highlands were called to the scene because of its location and questionable jurisdiction. One firefighter commented it was good to have both departments there because they used both jaws of life at the same time. Two ambulances from Haliburton Highlands EMS were also at the scene, along with police officers who had the road blocked off for hours while they investigated.

A late-model Toyota rests on its roof after it rolled over three times on County Road 121 near the Hydro station Monday morning. The driver was miraculously not injured.

Car flips three times before landing on its trunk in Monday morning accident

Monday was a bad day in Haliburton County for car accidents. Hours after the fatal collision on Highway 118, emergency personnel were called back out to deal with a roll-over on County Road 121.

The accident happened at the Allsaw Flats, where the Hydro station is. Marty Gryciuk, the owner of Marty's Health Foods in Haliburton Village, was headed towards Minden on 121 in a Toyota sedan when her car flipped end over end three times before landing on its trunk on the highway. The impact abruptly slid Gryciuk under her seat belt and out the broken back window of the car. Incredibly, she wasn't seriously injured — a few cuts and scrapes but it could have been so much worse.

"She's lucky to be alive," says her grateful husband, Rolf. "The police said they don't understand how she lived.

Our angel was looking over us."

Her husband came into The Echo office later Monday afternoon to talk about the accident. He says his wife went out in the other lane to pass two vehicles, a blue pick-up truck that was directly in front of her and a delivery van that was in front of the truck. Gryciuk says his wife got by the pick-truck without incident but the delivery van crossed over the centre line, forcing her to pull far to the far left side of the highway, so far that her wheels caught the gravel shoulder and her car rolled over.

Gryciuk says he wants to talk to the driver of the blue pick-up truck because that person will be able to confirm his wife's story.

His wife was taken by ambulance to Haliburton Hospital and treated for minor injuries. The Gryciuks' car was a write-off.

THE WILBERFORCE AGRICULTURAL FAIR on Friday and Saturday went well under clear skies and rather pleasant weather. We won't give the names of the many winners, but all the events and sections were well-contested. The Baby Show on Saturday morning was well-attended. The babies were a happy, healthy, well-dressed bunch; parents and grandparents very proud. The Pony Pull and the Horse Draws attracted many who enjoy the sight of horse power hauling heavy loads.

See Fairly page 18

The 19th annual Fair in Wilberforce ended on a high note with the perennial balloon lift-off - 225 went airborne - outside the curling rink on Saturday. Hosted by the Wilberforce Agricultural Society, the fair included (clockwise from middle) the ever-popular domestic science displays, horse and pony pulls, kids doing extremely cute things like hiding behind their mommies' legs and goat shows.

Everything went well at the mutt show. Such a great pack of handsome, well behaved dogs – all shapes, sizes, colours and breeds. Always a very popular crowd pleaser. And you have to admire the “celebrity” judges – such a great job when the “real” judge does most of the work.

Though there is not a huge amount of farming in the area, it is amazing how many people still grow wonderful gardens, preserve their produce and raise smaller animals. At the risk of leaving many out, it was good to see items entered by people with names such as Shackleton, Hughes, Lee, Holmes, Vanier, Ellis, Tripp, Harris-Saxby, Barnes, Goverde, Jordens, Riley & Jones.

Weren't Jim Laur's bees interesting? The whole display was very educational and popular.

Duck and Lion, huge, magnificent oxen were a crowd favourite. It was so exciting to ride in the wagon being pulled by these cowlike creatures so obediently following “their human” around the circuit. Do bring them back next year.

Throughout the day people visited the petting zoo for a chance to hold, to look at or touch one of the animals.

The Giant Balloon Lift helped wind up the Fair's many great opportunities to experience a touch of the farm and country living.

As we remember the balloons drifting away we anticipate news of how far they will travel. Last year's winning balloon travelled north east to Renfrew.

But the record was established in 2000 with one of the Wilberforce Fair Balloons travelling 1008 km (630 miles) all the way south to Kingsport, Tennessee, U.S.A.

The Fair is a fine annual event enjoyed by many. By those who enter the various sections with their baking, preserves, produce, photos, flowers, homcrafts of quilts, crochet, knitting, sewing and other creative arts and projects and their animals. By those who with satisfaction see a fair they have organized and carried out so well. By those who volunteer in so many ways. By those who simply come to enjoy this very good country fair.

Appreciation of all is extended to all who make the Fair such a good event.

Pennies from heaven (and other places, too)

HILDA CLARK
Special to The Echo

It was delightful to see so many people enjoying themselves at the Penny Raffle on Saturday, August 10 at the Monmouth Arena.

The idea of getting a card of 25 little tickets for a dollar, and that one of those little four cent tickets could win a prize, is very appealing. Adults drop lots of tickets into buckets beside their favourite things. The kids go along and hope for a toy, a puzzle, a bear or game. Maybe a new shrub, some pretty towels, a case of pop, gift certificates from your favourite restaurant or fast food place, a set of Sherlock Holmes videos, a painting, some books, fishing tackle, a basket of beets, a beautiful hand made wooden potato storage box or a fine picnic table! Close to 200 prizes! Such variety! And good value too!

The Monmouth Recreation Committee

thanks all the very generous people who donated so many great prizes. It's those prizes that keep people coming to this "crazy" event. And thanks to all the organizers. Many hours of work go into the preparation and set up, the actual raffle, and the clean up.

Thanks to all the young people, many in clown suits, who helped with kids' games, displayed the numbers on the stage, did the "running" of the prizes to the announcer, and many other tasks. Appreciation to all volunteers - face painters, ticket sellers, food booth helpers and the clean up crew. The Recreation Committee appreciate your attendance and participation.

It is hoped that all had some fun with family and friends even if you didn't win a prize.

Your contribution to the Penny Raffle will be used wisely for various recreation related projects in this area of Highlands East.

Common cents: Nearly 200 articles were for the taking at the sixth annual Penny Raffle in Wilberforce on Saturday. Several hundred people spent the evening at the Monmouth Arena using raffle tickets and a little luck to take home items such as books, figurines and clothing. Photos by Darren Lum

Landscapes through Jane Selbie's art

MEREDITH BROWN

Special to the Echo

Come and journey through the seasons via fabric art by Haliburton artist Jane Selbie.

The Rails End Gallery is excited to be showing "Seasons" until September 3. The exhibition models the effectiveness of redefining small pieces of material in a new and dramatic way.

Jane Selbie captures Canada's beloved scenes through her brightly coloured fabric pictures. The artist's use of colour and simplicity of line in her landscapes echo the influences of the Group of Seven. Jane's labour-intensive works of art have gained overwhelming popularity since 1999 when her art career brought her to frame her various sized Fabrications.

Geographic experiences contribute strongly to the art created by Selbie. While growing up she enjoyed hiking the mountains and creek beds of British Columbia and later the meadows and lakes of Southern Ontario where the colours and land greatly influenced how Jane sees the world. Whether sunsets, forests, lakes or shadows, all provide inspiration for her work.

Her fascination with fabric began at age 13 and by 1972 Jane began selling fabric collages in Thornhill. A love of colour, texture and combinations of fabric led to both quilting and design work. Her Productions have been sold through local shops, the Nuthatch (an artisans' co-op) and the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts. For a period she was the solo featured artist at the Pinestone Resort in Haliburton. Awards at the Haliburton Country Fair and the School of Fine Arts have acknowledged her skill in quilting and needlework.

The Rails End Gallery gratefully acknowledges the support of the Ontario Arts Council for this exhibition.

The gallery is open Monday - Wednesday 10am to 6pm; Thursday and Friday 10am to 7pm and Saturday and Sunday 10am to 5pm. Guided tours are available upon request.

Public Open Houses Muskoka River Water Management Plan

The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) is undertaking a study to review the operational management of Crown and privately-owned water control structures (dams and hydro-power facilities) on the Muskoka River system. The purpose of the project is to develop a water management plan that considers the interests and concerns of all users (e.g. fish, wildlife, navigation, electric power generation, recreation, esthetic values, and flood control), and provides balanced operational management (with respect to lake levels and river flows) for the potentially competing uses of the Muskoka River waters.

MNR has commissioned Acres & Associated Environmental Limited (and their affiliate Acres International Ltd.) to undertake Phase I of the study, consisting of background data collection and establishment of a computer model of the river system (completion in spring 2003).

Public open houses are being held at three locations within the watershed to invite your participation in this planning process. The locations and times are as follows:

Dorset
Dorset Recreation Centre
Gymnasium
Main Street
August 23, 2002
6:00 to 9:00 pm

Huntsville
Town Hall
Auditorium
37 Main Street East
August 24, 2002
1:00 to 4:00 pm

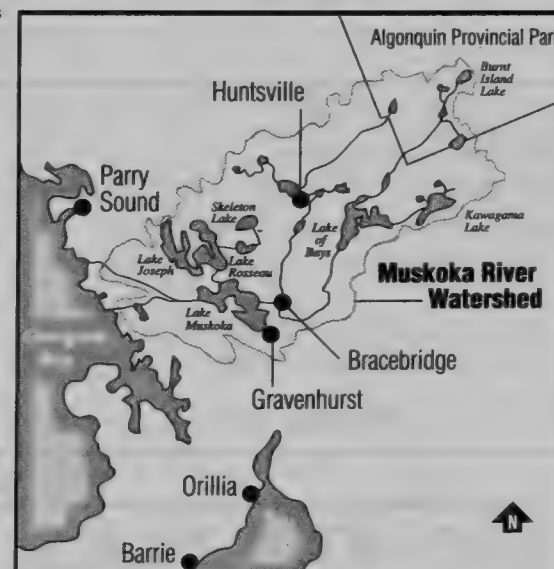

Port Carling
Pt. Carling Community Centre
Lower Hall
6 Bailey Street
August 25, 2002
1:00 to 4:00 pm

The purpose of these open houses is to explain the project, and provide you with the opportunity to comment on any values, concerns or issues that you may have regarding water management activities on the Muskoka River system. There will be a short presentation at 7:00 pm on August 23, 2002 and at 2:00 pm on August 24 and 25. Jack Bush show has Haliburton connections

Editor

Life in Haliburton is all about connections – the connections between people and the connections people make with their natural surroundings.

The Jack Bush - The Early Years show, which opened at the Rails End Gallery on Saturday, also makes those connections in a rather unique way.

The exhibit, which is quite a coup for the small town gallery, came together because Jack Bush, the son of the famous abstract painter Jack Bush, wanted a way to thank Haliburton for the warm welcome he and his wife Elaine Bell received when they moved here in 2000.

After talking to his brother Terry, who runs the foundation overseeing the remaining collection of their father's work, he brought the idea to Mary Hastings. Hastings, who owns Hillside House in Haliburton, grew up across the street from the Bush brothers in Toronto. She presented the idea to the gallery's board, which was thrilled with the idea of hosting a show of the original works of such a prominent artist.

And viewers of the exhibit will have a connection of their own to make – at least four of the paintings in the show depict Highlands scenes.

Obviously, Jack Bush made a visit to Haliburton in 1944 since the paintings are dated from this time. (One painting of a yellow house even has Bush's original price of $35 printed on the back. His works today often sell for at least thousand times that amount.)

"My father loved the landscape, as we do, and a show at the Rails End Gallery seemed a natural fit," Jack Bush Jr. said at the show's opening on Saturday afternoon. A third brother, Robert, also made a surprise visit to the opening.

Jack Bush Jr. said "My wife and I have come to appreciate so much the warm welcome we've received in Haliburton and in a way, this show is a way of saying thanks."

"It's an honour and a privilege to have a show of such a notable Canadian artist," said Joe Smith, president of the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts.

Terry Bush thanked curator Amy Brohm for the excellent way she hung the show, saying she had a big task to do in a short amount of time. "We rushed up here yesterday with the paintings and said 'Here!'" he laughed. (Luke Schell of Perfect Prints also did a commendable job framing one of the Haliburton paintings with less than half a day's notice, a grateful Terry Bush said.)

Brohm loves having a show of such magnitude at the gallery, but she says the space and the exhibit fit each other well. "I like how the paintings look in this room – the rustic buildings and the scenery."

The Jack Bush - The Early Years show runs at the Haliburton gallery until September 4.

Be water-safe this summer

Red Cross Water safety fact sheet:

- Drowning is one of the leading causes of death for Canadian children aged one to four.
- For every toddler who dies from drowning, it is estimated there are three to five additional near drownings, which require hospitalization.
- In nearly half of the infant and toddler drownings, the victims were alone.

• A small child can drown in only a few inches of water - enough to cover the mouth and nose.

• Drowning can occur in less time than it takes to read this safety message.

• The most common location for infant drownings is the bathtub.

ALGONQUIN PARK

Independent Forest Audit

KBM Forestry Consultants Inc. of Thunder Bay, Ontario has been retained by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources to conduct an Independent Forest Audit, consistent with the Crown Forest Sustainability Act, on the management of the Algonquin Park Forest.

The purpose of the audit is to assess forest management within the Algonquin Park Forest during the five-year period April 1, 1997 to March 31, 2002; specifically:

- § compliance with the Crown Forest Sustainability Act;
- § compliance with the Forest Management Planning process;
- § a comparison of planned vs. actual forest management activities;
- § the effectiveness of forest management activities; and
- § compliance with the terms and conditions of the Algonquin Park Forestry Agreement.

You are invited to comment on the forest operations in the Park for this period of time. Please provide your comments by August 19, 2002 to the Local Citizens Committee (LCC) representative:

Spruce Lake boils some corn, sings some songs

On August 3, the Spruce Lake and Outlet Bay Cottagers' Association had its annual fun day and cornboil. Held for the 3rd year at the Harold Foyster home on Outlet Bay, it was a big success. Fueled by beef-on-a-bun supplied by Cathy Barnett and delicious local corn, the 150 cottagers enjoyed the children's games, including the ever-popular adult/child balloon toss. The adults and children alike were entertained by the band "Western Radio", and special guest Michael Feagan from Haliburton Lake, who played until the sun went down and the last weary guests headed for home.

And the winners are ...

First Public Notice

FISH STOCKING IN NEW WATERS PROPOSED IN THE MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES' BANCROFT DISTRICT

The Ministry of Natural Resources is proposing to stock Rainbow Trout into two local lakes, which historically have not been inhabited by this species.

The lakes this Ministry is proposing to stock are:

- a) Horseshoe Lake, Minden Township - Introduce Rainbow Trout to a lake which previously supported lake trout and warm water species.
- b) Glamor Lake, Glamorgan and Monmouth Township - Introduce Rainbow Trout to a lake in which the current Lake Trout population is in decline.

The purpose of this proposal is to provide new short and long term angling opportunities for trout and divert some of the present heavy fishing pressure away from current lake trout fisheries in the district. The contribution of this proposal will also help in the achievement of targets for cold water angling opportunities identified in the Minden District Land Use Guidelines. The project is being planned in accordance with an approved Class "C" Environmental Assessment for small Scale MNR Projects. This notice is intended to give you the opportunity to provide input to the planning of this project. Where you feel, after consulting with MNR staff, that serious environmental concerns remain unresolved it is your right to request that the project be subject to an individual environmental assessment under the Environmental Assessment Act. The decision rests with the Minister of the Environment.

Comments and information collected regarding this proposal will be kept on file unless otherwise requested, will be available for public review.

You are invited to direct any inquiries, or comments regarding the introduction of Rainbow Trout in Horseshoe Lake of Minden Township, and Glamor Lake of Glamorgan and Monmouth Township by August 31st 2002.
